The Company

Founded in February 2004, GHP Far East Co., Ltd is a 100% foreign direct investment and a daughter of the German GHP Holding.

First established to serve as an IT outsourcing partner for German businesses, GHP Far East has steadily grown alongside the economy of its host country Vietnam. We have managed to expand our client network to include many other countries of the world without sacrificing our quality of customer service or working conditions in our Ho Chi Minh office. Using over 50 years of experience and knowledge from within the GHP network, we can offer our clients operational IT services, software development and data entry solutions at higher quality and security standards than most German companies.

The Service

The abilities of over 200 specially trained and highly qualified employees allow us to efficiently develop applications for all industries and guarantee a competent and round the clock service. No matter how challenging your needs may be, our specialist teams are more than happy to offer solutions that fit your industry requirements as well as your schedule. Some of our satisfied customers already include governmental organizations, automobile industry, petrol industry, consulting companies, publishing houses, as well as numerous brands.

The Location

The GHP Far East Co Ltd. is situated in modern facilities in Quang Trung Software City, the Silicon-Valley-sized IT centre of Ho Chi Minh City, Vietnam.

Visitors from all countries will find the Vietnamese welcoming and open to foreigners. And covering roughly the same area as Germany, Vietnam has a high affinity for GHP's home country, too – after all, that's where over 200,000 of the characteristically diligent and accurate Vietnamese work force have been trained. growth in Asia, an extremely young demography and a booming IT sector, Asia's latest economic tiger Vietnam is a politically stable, promising business landscape that still has that wonderful feeling of change in the air.

Operational IT Services

Especially for small and medium-sized companies, professional IT support can help to increase business potential dramatically. So whether you wish to set up a secure network, require a server or want to enhance your existing

IT environment, our experts at GHP are more than happy to equip you with hardware, software and applications customized to your needs. As part of our remote administration, we offer a whole range of services including the setting up and maintaining of a secure network as well as the installation of upgrades and system back-up solutions.

GHP can further host your mail servers, web servers and databases on-site and provide comprehensive reports on your systems at any time.

Software Development

With over 30 software developers working on more than 30 projects a year, GHP Far East has developed a multitude of software applets from web and CRM applications to OCR/ICR and barcode technology. The department is divided into three groups, namely internal software, external software and body leasing. The latter incorporates those experts we offer as freelance workers to other development teams.

At GHP Far East, we can customize software to all of your needs. We develop in modules, so you can easily extend or even modify your system. Throughout the development process, you can either be informed about the progress by means of daily status reports or request to keep the project management on your side. Whichever you choose, you can be sure that we understand how to overcome the inconveniences normally experienced when outsourcing abroad, and that all our software development teams have good language skills and are able to communicate clearly.

Data Entry Solutions

You are looking for a holistic data management solution that includes everything from consulting to production?

Then we can offer you a system that is not only completely aligned to your business needs but also extremely flexible in terms of additions, extensions and changes due to its modular structure.

As far as data capturing is concerned, we can handle a wide variety of document types and convert information from any analogue form into any digital format that you request.

With over 200 employees, we are able to manage more than 50,000 documents of any kind a day, reaching highest standards of quality by working with forms and entry spaces through interpretation and research. On request, we can guarantee 99.98% accuracy, even on hand-written documents. Further, we can also help you with address validation, accumulation, expansion and completion.

→ WHY GHP FAR EAST

German Quality Standards

Being a German enterprise with a German CEO and highly experienced German management, GHP Far East offers German quality standards at Vietnamese prices. The quality of our services is assured and controlled by expert personnel and has been awarded the ISO 9001:2000 certificate for quality management by the TÜV Rheinland. But apart from making quality assurance their top priority, our hard-working employees continuously develop innovative products and services, setting us apart from our competition.

German Security Standards

Falling under German law and offering German-speaking customer services, GHP Far East further provides outsourcing without the usual risks, but rather with an emphasis on security. To support this issue, we have already successfully concluded a data control audit in 2005 and can guarantee that no third party will ever have access to client documents. All data is encrypted during its time at GHP Far East and prior to delivery, making it available only to a limited number of employees for a limited amount of time.
